

CLOTHES OF SLAIN ARE TAKEN AS PAY FOR FOUL MURDERS

[Republican A.P. Leased Wire]
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The slaughter with axes of all the Armenian faculty members of Anatolia College, Marsovan, Northern Asia Minor, together with 1,200 others by Turkish peasants whose pay for the work was the privilege of stripping the clothing of their victims' bodies, was described here today by the Rev. George E. White, president of the college recently returned to this country. The massacres were committed at night by order of the Turkish government, he said, the Armenians being sent out in lots of a hundred or two to their doom and their bodies rolled into prepared burial trenches.

"One group of our college boys asked permission to sing before they died and they sang 'Nearer My God to Thee' when they were struck down," Dr. White said.

"The situation for Armenia became extremely acute in the spring of 1915 when the Turks determined to eliminate the Armenian question by eliminating the Armenians. The Armenian question arises from political and religious causes.

"On the pretext of searching for deserting soldiers, concealed bombs, weapons, seditious literature or revolutionists, the Turkish officers arrested about 1,200 Armenian men at Marsovan, accompanying their investigations by horrible brutalities. There was no revolutionary activity in our region whatever.

"The men were sent out in lots of one or two hundred in night deportations to the mountains where trenches had been prepared. These peasants, who were employed to do what was done, said it was a pity to waste bullets and they used axes.

"Then the Turks turned on the women and children, the old men and little boys. Scores of oxen were gathered and in the early dawn as they passed, the squeaking of their wheels left memories that make the blood curdle even now. Thousands of women and children were swept away. Where? Nowhere. No destination was stated or intended. Why? Simply because they were Armenians and Christians and were in the hands of the Turks.

"Girls and young women were snatched away at every turn on the journey. The girls sold at Marsovan for from $2 to $4 each. I know because I heard the conversation of men engaged in the traffic. I know because I was able to ransom three girls at the price of $4.40.

"The misery, the agony, the suffering were beyond power of words to express—almost beyond the power of hearts to conceive. In bereavement, thirst, hunger, loneliness, hopelessness, the groups were swept on and on along roads which had no destination.

"I received word from Ambassador Morgenthau that our premises would not be interfered with. Next morning the chief of police came with armed men and demanded surrender of all Armenians connected with the College, Girls' School and hospital. We claimed the right to control our grounds as American citizens.

"More than two hours we held them at bay. They brought more armed men. They again demanded surrender of the Armenians. I refused. They challenged me for resisting the Turkish government. They said any one who did so was liable to immediate execution.

"They broke open our gates, brought in oxen and asked where the Armenians were. I refused to tell. They went through the buildings smashing down the doors. Then our Armenian friends, feeling that further attempt on our part to save them would bring more harm probably than good, came forth, professing themselves loyal Turkish subjects and offered to do what was required.

"An oxcart was assigned each family with a meager supply of food, bedding and clothing. The mother sat on the load with her children about her, the father prepared to walk beside the cart. I offered prayer and then the sad procession carrying 72 persons from the college and hospital moved away.

"These teachers were men of character, education, ability and usefulness, several of them representing the fine type of graduates from American or European universities. The company went in safety for about fifty miles. Then the men were separated from the women. Their hands bound behind their backs and they led away. The eight Armenian members of the staff of instruction of Anatolia College were among the slain. The women and children were moved on and on. No one knows where and no one knows how many of them are still living.

"The government officers plowed the Armenian cemetery in Marsovan and sowed it with grain as a symbol that no Armenian should live or die to be buried there. No Armenian student or teacher was left to Anatolia college and of the Protestant congregation in the city of 350 souls, more than 300 with their pastors were swept away. It was a government movement throughout—a movement against the Armenian people.

"These things are typical of what took place through the six provinces of the Turkish empire known as Armenia. The Armenians are the Yankees of the east—the merchants, manufacturers, capitalists, artisans and among the best of the farmers. One quarter of a million people succeeded in escaping into Russian Caucasus and among them American representatives have done wonderful work in caring for the sick, giving bread to the hungry, clothing the naked, caring for orphans. Perhaps a million more went to Syria and Mesopotamia where they have been dependent upon American relief which is helping this worthy people to pull through alive.

The number of Armenians who have been massacred, said Dr. White, is estimated by the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief in New York City at from 500,000 to 1,000,000 while there are a million still living in need of immediate aid, for which $7,000,000 a month is urgently needed, without which thousands will perish in destitution and suffering. The committee is so conducted, he said, that every dollar collected goes for relief purposes.

Dr. White, now living at Minneapolis, was ordered to leave Marsovan by the Turkish government. He was formerly pastor of the Congregational church in Waverly, Ia.

FINANCES AND MARKETS

[Republican A.P. Leased Wire]
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—(Wall Street)—Shorts made ineffectual efforts to depress prices in the stock market today, concentrating upon rails and speculative industrials. New York Central, St. Paul, Canadian Pacific and Delaware and Hudson were heaviest of the rails, but rallied on strength shown by Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and minor issues.

United States Steel's reversal of 11-8 points were succeeded by a net gain of a moderate fraction and initial losses in coppers and equipments gave way to final advances of a point or thereabouts. Closing quotations were for the most part at the day's highest levels. Total sales 235,000 shares. Liberty bonds were again a noteworthy feature, many lots changing hands from par to the new premium of $100.30, at which a few bonds sold for cash. The general bond market was irregular, total sales, par value, aggregating $2,745,000. United States bonds old issues, were unchanged on call during the week. The weekly bank statement presented no features of special interest, the actual condition of local institutions showing an expansion of $46,000,000 in loans and a contraction of about $5,750,000 in excess reserves.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW
NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The ruling rate of six per cent for call loans, an almost utter lack of time money, the agreement between the war industries board and the steel manufacturers and the unlimited bond issue soon to be offered by the government, all gave Wall street material for much sober reflection during the week.

These and sundry incidents of less importance bore pertinently upon securities values, which tended gradually downward. Rails and other shares hitherto classed among the more stable issues experienced greater depreciation than those of less intrinsic value, but the entire list reacted later on the recurrent waves of liquidation, augmented by persistent short selling.

Observers are agreed that at no other time since the inception of the present decline has the market reflected less public support.

The weakness of the bond market, with numerous high grade securities at lowest quotations of recent years seemed to bespeak indifference of the conservative investor.

Liberty bonds furnished the only noteworthy exception, rising steadily to the new level of $100.30.

NEW YORK COTTON

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Unexpected cool weather with frost indications for tonight encouraged corn buyers today. Largely as a result, prices at close although unsettled were 1/4 to 1/2% net higher at $1.18 1/2@1.18 3/4, to $1.18 1/2@1.18 3/4, to $1.15 1/2, May. Oats finished unchanged to higher and provisions ranging from 1/2c decline to a rise of 7c.

Investors who appeared to have been giving considerable attention to the feeding value of corn compared with prices for live stock took prompt notice of the chance that the prevailing wave of lower temperatures might bring about eleventh hour damage to the corn crop. The country sold almost no corn; offerings everywhere were light.

Oats hardened in response to continued demand from export interests. Owing to the recent sharp advances, provisions encountered a decided lull.

Corn close—Dec. $1.18 1/2; May $1.15 1/2.

Oats—Dec. 58c; May 61c.

Pork—Oct. $45.47; Jan. $47.20.

STOCK LETTER
By R. Allyn Lewis

There is no more reason for the recent decline than for the rally of a few days previous. One represents an oversold market and the other an overbought. Just so long as money demand areas are as great as they are today, and investment stocks are pressed for sale so long as we likely to have a declining market which makes big rallies in demand.

There is a feeling that the next copper dividend will be at a reduced rate and for that reason this group is heavy. No one knows exactly what the cut in steel prices means. An advance in bituminous coal is expected and higher wages for the miners.

St. Paul is selling down because its earnings are bad and because it is very high compared to other stocks. N. Y. C. convertible sixes sold at 97 yesterday, that shows that speculators which have no short interest are not in demand.

The stock market is beginning to look very much oversold. Sharp and substantial rallies may come at any time. Don't anticipate much decline at this time. Scale buying on condition declines would prove advantageous.

Local Produce Market
